

Ultra Short Tax-Free Income Fund Commentary

Market Overview

The short end of the municipal market saw yields on fixed rate bonds rise in the first two months of the period before staying relatively flat in June, ultimately settling in around 0.50% higher by the end of the quarter. This was offset by continued volatility in yields on variable rate demand notes (VRDNs). After the SIFMA index opened the quarter at 3.97%, it fell to 2.17% in mid-April before rebounding to 3.86% by the end of the month. The move in yields was less pronounced in May, as the index ranged from 2.93% to 3.56%, but June saw another dramatic upward move from 2.84% to 4.01% by the end of the period.

Positioning the Ultra Short Tax-Free Income Fund

Portfolio composition is subject to change.

The Fund will continue to look for opportunities to lock in attractive fixed rate yields while maintaining a core position in VRDNs.

Why should investors consider investing in this Fund?

The Fund offers an attractive tax-free yield and the investment mix of fixed rate bonds and VRDNs helps maintain a relatively stable net asset value.

The SIFMA Municipal Swap index is a 7-day high-grade market index comprised of tax-exempt VRDNs reset rates that are reported to the Municipal Securities Rule Making Board's (MSRBs) SHORT reporting system. The index is calculated on an actual/actual basis and is published every Wednesday by 4pm Eastern Time. The bonds going into the index are selected from all eligible bonds reporting data through the SHORT system that meet the index criteria as set forth by SIFMA. The index is calculated by Bloomberg as the calculation agent for SIFMA.

Investment Risks

Fixed income securities are subject to interest rate risks. The principal value of a bond falls when interest rates rise and rise when interest rates fall. During periods of rising interest rates, the value of a bond investment is at greater risk than during periods of stable or falling rates. Short term investment grade bonds offer less risk and generally a lower rate of return than longer term higher yielding bonds. Bond funds will tend to experience smaller fluctuations in value than stock funds. However, investors in any bond fund should anticipate fluctuations in price, especially for longer term issues and in environments of changing interest rates. The Fund's income may be subject to certain state and local taxes and, depending on one's tax status, to the federal alternative minimum tax.
